

Descriptive Essay

Topic

One of the factors conducive to learning is an effective teacher. Write an essay describing the characteristics of an effective teacher. Give examples to support your views. Write between 250-300 words.

Introduction
General information Presenting your thesis Linking devices	Modern societies place great emphasis on the importance of education. Although learning is a constant process, not solely confined to the classroom, it takes a good teacher to assume responsibility for educating the young and encouraging learning outside the school environment
1st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	What makes an effective teacher? For one thing, effective teachers are those who have a thorough grasp of their subject and demonstrate outstanding skills and performance. There can be no transmission of knowledge to learners unless the teachers themselves are well versed in their subject and have effective teaching skills. That, of course, requires continual training and professional development. It also means that teachers set high educational standards, not only for able and well-motivated learners, but also for those with little interest in learning and low self-confidence. Taking each learner's needs and abilities into consideration helps teachers design their syllabus, organise learning activities and decide on assessment criteria.
2st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	Besides being able to present ideas effectively, good teachers realise that their commitment extends beyond the simple diffusion of knowledge within the classroom. Their demeanour must be one of patience and understanding, thereby creating a rapport with their students. With an inspiring and friendly teaching environment, personal growth and development are encouraged beyond the classroom walls. As well as stressing the importance of learning, committed teachers stress the importance of social values such as discipline, cooperation and mutual respect over and above competition and pride.
Conclusion
Linking devices	To sum up, state-of-the-art educational facilities can certainly assist learning. However, it is teachers with their instructional expertise, knowledge and commitment, who can ensure that students not only acquire a sound body of knowledge, but also a set of values which can prepare them for their role as citizens.

Cause and Effect Essay

Topic

Most people nowadays are obsessed with their careers and making money and, as a result, they deprive themselves of the benefits of leisure time. In your opinion, why is this and what are the consequences of not having enough leisure time? Give examples to support your ideas.

Introduction
General information Presenting your thesis Linking devices	Most of us envisage a life of comfort. We decide on a career that we hope will ensure us financial independence and success. The path many of us choose to follow, however, imposes great demands on us and forces us into a stressful work routine, devoid of any pleasure which leisure time might offer.
1 st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	Nowadays it is difficult to make ends meet in a very competitive world, let alone balance long hours of work with leisure. The ever-increasing cost of living forces us to work more and more and, unfortunately, what is enough today may be far too little tomorrow. As a result, our persistence in trying to fulfil our desire to have more than just enough does not allow us to indulge in free time activities.
2 nd Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	Subsequently, various problems may occur due to our lack of free time. Being able to buy material things creates the illusion that we have become successful, but what we are actually doing is alienating ourselves from others. It is not necessary to point out that a heavy work load keeps us away from our loved ones and isolates us. When we suddenly realise that we have been using all our time making money, it might be too late to find emotional support to fight loneliness. Moreover, our never- ending striving to earn more puts a great strain on us. Stress-related diseases such as heart diseases and depression have, according to medical statistics, become prevalent in modern societies due to this phenomenon.
Conclusion
Linking devices	To sum up, although we cannot ignore the importance of money, we should think of all the positive effects leisure time can have on our physical and mental well-being and our personal life. Having time to do a sport, enjoy a hobby or spend time with loved ones, therefore, is not self-indulgence, but rather, of vital importance for the welfare of us all.

Compare and Contrast Essays

Topic

Automation in the workplace is thought to be a mixed blessing. In your opinion, what are the advantages and disadvantages of automation? Give examples to support your ideas

Introduction
General information Presenting your thesis Linking devices	Technological advances in all fields have introduced automation and mechanisation into all aspects of our lives. Irrespective of which perspective we observe it from, automation in the workplace has both advantages and disadvantages.
1 st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	All industrialised nations have witnessed the benefits of automation. First of all, automated machinery has simplified work and increased production. As a consequence, there has been a reduction in labour hours, which in turn has resulted in more free time for the worker. Moreover, increased production entails higher productivity bonuses and improved pension benefits. In addition, mass production has contributed to the lowering of costs of products. So, televisions, telephones and cars, to name just a few, are now available to more people. Finally, the introduction of computers has also had a great impact on a variety of fields. It has augmented teaching methods and facilitated learning, aided surgical procedures using robots, improved communication systems through satellites and made transport faster and safer.
2 st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	However, automation has also produced negative effects. One of its most serious repercussions is that of unemployment. Many unskilled or semiskilled labourers have been made redundant since their skills have been replaced by machines. Although there are still some areas which have not been automated and may possibly be able to absorb a number of these redundant workers, soon even these areas will be saturated. Besides unemployment, another negative effect of automation is alienation. Workers doing repetitive and tedious work on the assembly line feel bored and estranged. Symptoms of alienation such as alcoholism, drug addiction and depression are common among these workers.
Conclusion
Linking devices	In conclusion, nobody can deny the contributions of automation in the workplace. Living standards have certainly improved and, as technology advances, we will most likely experience more benefits. On the other hand, we cannot disregard its serious consequences on our personal lives and on society, too.

Argumentative Essay

Topic

Some countries in the world have set aside land to create national conservation parks. In your opinion, how important do you think this is?

Introduction
General information Presenting your thesis Linking devices	Human population and infrastructure are growing at an alarming rate and, and as a consequence, nature is being destroyed. National conservation parks can preserve and conserve natural lands and their bio-diversity gives people the opportunity to escape from the city and explore nature while promoting an awareness of the importance of such a project.
1st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	The rapid growth of the human population and the need for more space has supplanted natural lands and waterways with buildings, roads and bridges. It has also been responsible for the deforestation of large areas of natural habitat and the damage which has been caused to their bio-diversity. National conservation parks can offer a refuge for wildlife and be home to many species of plants. Located near unspoilt natural environments, or even within populated areas, these parks can protect the wildlife population under threat of extinction. Moreover, not only can they restore denuded forests thereby giving us clean water to drink and fresh air to breathe, but they can also lay the ground for scientific research on animal and plant life in their natural habitat.
2st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	Besides protecting wildlife, national conservation parks can provide opportunities, in specially designated areas, for recreational activities. Anyone interested in escaping from the city can explore nature and, at the same time, enjoy the outdoors. For example, people can go hiking, bushwalking, or camping, or just enjoy nature and watch animals. Along with recreational opportunities, these parks promote environmental education and raise awareness of the need to protect all species on the planet and of the fundamental significance of nature itself.
Conclusion
Linking devices	In a nutshell, the role of these parks is very important. They are special areas and it is the responsibility of both the government and the people to treat them with care for future generations to enjoy.

Problem – Solution Essay

Topic

Every summer, news bulletins at island resorts are full of stories of young tourists misbehaving due to excessive alcohol consumption. What should be done to improve the situation? Support your ideas.

Introduction
General information Presenting your thesis Linking devices	Greece's reputation of constant sun, unparalleled beaches and blue skies are a certain attraction for young holidaymakers seeking freedom from the constraints of home. They are urged on by colourful brochures offering them sun, fun and wild night-life. Consequently, as soon as they arrive, they start drinking excessive amounts of alcohol and misbehaving outrageously. This has caused great consternation in holiday resorts and has led to a feeling that something needs to be done to curb this excessive behaviour.
1st Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	At the outset, certain measures should be imposed by the tour operators to deal with this increasingly distressing situation. First and foremost, a great deal of the blame must be put squarely on the shoulders of the holiday companies. All written holiday information and brochures should be vetted and inappropriate vocabulary modified before they are circulated to the travel agents. In addition, cheap package holidays in troubled resorts should increase their prices to attract a better quality of tourists, many of whom are put off by the rowdier elements.
2nd Main Paragraph
Topic Sentence Supporting ideas Linking devices	Moreover, the resorts themselves should instigate new regulations to deal with offenders. More restrictions must be placed on nightclubs that encourage excessive drinking. Such restrictions could include limiting the number of drinks consumed, removing anyone from the club who is out of control and banning them from returning. This would set a standard and promote a sense of responsibility. If the clubs did not comply, their licence could be revoked. Outside on the streets, there should be a much stronger police presence. Arrests and punishments have to be meted out to offenders, even putting them on the next plane home in certain circumstances, thus discouraging others by setting an example.
Conclusion
Linking devices	In conclusion, if both tour operators and resorts did their part, this problem could easily be resolved. After all, everyone wants to enjoy themselves when they are on holiday, but the happiness of the majority should not be spoiled by a few who misbehave.